MARCH
☐ Round 1 results letters with Specialized High Schools results distributed by counselor.
There are two paths for applying to high school. Let's look at those paths and the next steps for your student.

High School Application Action Checklist

SUMMER
- Use the 2018 New York City High School Directory and NYC School Finder (schoolfinder.nyc.gov) to build a list of programs that interest you.
- Look at your June 2017 final report card and compare it to Selection Criteria shown for programs that look at an applicant's academic record.
- Come to the High School Admissions Family Workshops.
- Plan your admissions calendar for the fall.

SEPTEMBER
- Find each school's open house date by using the High School Admissions Events Calendar (schools.nyc.gov/High) or by contacting them directly.
- Visit school tables at the Citywide High School Fair.
- For Audition Programs: Audition dates are on each school's page in the High School directory. Follow their instructions to register for auditions.
- For Screened Programs: Admissions requirements are on each school's page in the High School directory. Follow their instructions and make a plan for the upcoming months.

OCTOBER
- Round 1 Application available. See your counselor to get a copy. Review student information for accuracy.
- Visit school tables at the Borough High School Fairs.
- Attend open houses.
- Review Admissions Priorities for each school of interest.
- For Audition Programs: Attend auditions, interviews, and information sessions.
- For Screened Programs: Complete school-based assessments and/or submit portfolios.

NOVEMBER
- Continue to attend open houses.
- Continue to complete school-based assessments/portfolios or auditions for Screened/Audition programs.

DECEMBER
- Return your completed Round 1 Application to your counselor by December 1, 2017.
  - Make sure each of the 12 program codes listed is accurate.
  - Sign the application.
  - Keep a copy of the application and the printed receipt from your counselor.
  - Do not list Specialized High Schools on the application!
- Continue to attend auditions, interviews, and open houses; complete school-based assessments and/or portfolio.

MARCH
- Round 1 Results Letters distributed by school counselor. You may receive one offer, multiple offers, or no offer.
- Round 2 Application available and due.
- Attend the Round 2 High School Fair.

Know Your Chances of Getting In

In this section, we will explore how you can determine if a program is a “reach,” “target,” or “likely-match” for you.

Reach
Lower chance you’ll get an offer

Target
Average chance you’ll get an offer

Likely-Match
Higher chance you’ll get an offer

Student Factors and Program Factors

A number of factors play a role in matching you to your high school program. These are broken down into Student Factors and Program Factors.

Student Factors

- Choices on Application: The 12 programs listed on the application AND the order in which they are listed.

- Student Information: Student’s academic record, audition, and/or address.
  (Only for some programs)

Program Factors

- Admissions Priorities: The order in which applicants are considered.

  - Reach = not in Priority Group 1

  - Target or Likely-Match = in Priority Group 1

- Admissions Methods: How programs consider and match with applicants. Only Screened and Audition programs have selection criteria ranges.

- Seat Availability: The number of seats available for applicants.

  - Reach = High Demand: 10 or more applicants per seat

  - Target = Low or Average Demand: 4-9 applicants per seat

  - Likely-Match = Low Demand: 3 or fewer applicants per seat
An eighth grade student is a Brooklyn resident who attends All City Leadership School, a Brooklyn school with grades 6-12. The student is creating a draft list of high school programs to apply to.

Task: Help the student figure out their chances of getting into each program and give the student recommendations to make their High School Application more balanced.

For a More Balanced Application, the Student Should...

Student lives in and attends school in:

Is the student a current 8th grade student at Chambers Street High School?

1. Which students are eligible to apply to the Science, Technology, Engineering and Mathematics Program?

Why?

2. Which student is in the first priority group?

Why?

3. Which student is in the second priority group?

Why?

4. Which student is in the third priority group?

Why?

Answers:

1. Jacob, Carmen, and Julia are all eligible for this program, because there are no program eligibilities listed.
2. Carmen, because she is a continuing 8th-grader.
3. Jacob, because he is a continuing 8th-grader but lives and goes to school in the Bronx.
4. Julia, because she is not a continuing 8th-grader and does not live or go to school in the Bronx.
ACTIVITY

My Chances: Reach, Target, or Likely-Match?

A balanced application has a mix of “reach” programs, “target” programs, and “likely-match” programs. To figure out your chances of getting an offer from a program, first read its Programs Offered table.

Task: Look at this sample program’s table, noting the highlighted sections; Then complete the My Chances Guide that follows to discover if this program is a reach, target, or likely-match for you.

Students with disabilities participate in high school admissions in the same way as their non-disabled peers. Students in eighth grade whose Individualized Education Program (IEP) Teams develop IEPs with a recommendation for special education services within a district school submit applications during the annual high school admissions process in December. Students with disabilities may apply to all programs listed in the New York City High School Directory. The Directory outlines each school’s admissions requirements, which are applicable to all students. Additional information on the high school admissions process may be found at schools.nyc.gov/High and information on special education programs and services may be found at schools.nyc.gov/Academics/SpecialEducation/.

Applying to High School
Students with disabilities may apply to any high school program, and all schools are expected to deliver the special education supports and services that students are recommended for on their IEPs. The high school application shows information about students’ current recommended special education instructional program and support services, prior year attendance data, reading and math standardized test scores, and subject area grades. Students and families can learn more about the programs and services available at each high school by meeting with guidance counselors, reviewing the New York City High School Directory or other resources provided by the NYCDOE, and attending high school admissions events and workshops and school information sessions.

Test- or Audition-Based Admissions Schools (Including Specialized High Schools)
Students with disabilities who are interested in applying to schools with admissions criteria that include tests and/or auditions may receive certain testing accommodations, as specified on their IEPs, as long as the accommodation does not impact what the test or audition is trying to measure. Review the New York City High School Directory for information about admissions criteria and test and audition dates, and, for information on testing accommodations, visit schools.nyc.gov/Academics/SpecialEducation/SupportsServices/InstructionalSupports/default.htm.

Students who are interested in applying to one of the Specialized High Schools must take the Specialized High Schools Admissions Test (SHSAT) and, if specified in their IEPs, may receive testing accommodations on the exam. To apply for Fiorello H. LaGuardia High School of Music & Art and Performing Arts, a specialized high school for performing/visual arts, students must participate in the school’s audition process but are not required to take the SHSAT. The only accommodations that are not permitted for tests or auditions are ones that change what is being measured. Students and their families should review the Specialized High Schools Student Handbook to learn more about the Specialized High Schools admissions process and related testing accommodations.

Special Education Specialized Programs in District Schools
Special education specialized programs provide targeted services and supports for students with autism spectrum disorders (ASD), students with intellectual disabilities or multiple disabilities, and students recommended for bilingual special education. Specialized programs are not available in all schools, and students must meet specific eligibility requirements. Therefore, students who are continuing in a specialized program or entering one for high school should work with their guidance counselors to also complete the regular high school application to ensure they apply to district schools that have the program the IEP Team has determined best meets the student’s needs. Students may receive both a specialized program offer and a district high school offer. In these cases, students and families should carefully consider which program option best meets the student’s academic and personal goals. See below for additional information about specialized programs. You may also visit schools.nyc.gov/Academics/SpecialEducation/IEPprocess or contact specializedprograms@schools.nyc.gov for information about the application process.

- ASD Nest and ASD Horizon programs are offered within some district schools and include a therapeutic component for students with autism who meet eligibility requirements, coordinated and provided by a multi-disciplinary team.
- Academics, Career, Essential Skills Program for Students with Intellectual Disabilities (ACES-ID) are offered within some district schools for eligible students who are classified by the IEP Team as having an “Intellectual Disability” or “Multiple Disabilities” and participate in New York State Alternate Assessments (NYSAA).

High School Admissions for Families of Students with Disabilities

- Bilingual special education programs are provided for students whose IEPs recommend special education supports and services in a language other than English to meet the needs of students with emergent English language skills. Currently, bilingual special education programs are offered in Spanish, Chinese, and Yiddish.

Schools or Programs in Accessible Buildings for Students with Mobility Impairments

Fully or partially accessible buildings are available for students with mobility impairment(s) to ensure they can enter and access the necessary areas of their school. A list of accessible schools can be found on the Office of Space Planning website at http://schools.nyc.gov/Offices/OSP/Accessibility.htm. Site accessibility is also described in the New York City High School Directory. Students and families are encouraged visit the school to determine whether the level of accessibility is appropriate to meet specific mobility needs.

Students in Specialized Schools (District 75)

In New York City, specialized schools for students with disabilities are managed by District 75. The transition to high school is a time when many IEP Teams, including the family, consider a transition to a more inclusive program in a District 1-32 school, if appropriate. For additional information about District 75 schools, please visit www.nyc.gov/schools/Offices/District75 or email d75info@schools.nyc.gov.

- Transitioning to a District 1-32 High School: current 8th graders in District 75 who are preparing to transition to a District 1-32 high school participate in high school admissions. This transition should be discussed and planned for at the 8th grade annual review meeting. Students and families are encouraged to work with their guidance counselors and attend a high school fair to learn more about their District 1-32 high school choices and options.

- Continuing in District 75 for High School: current 8th graders who will be transitioning to high school in a specialized District 75 school will receive their placement into high school through the District 75 Placement Office. Students will be notified of the high school placement in April or May. Current 8th grade students who have a recommendation of SETSS provided by a District 75 provider will be transitioning to high school in a specialized District 75 school and participate in an application and placement process managed directly by District 75. Applications are provided directly to students and are due in December. Students will be notified of their high school placement by the District 75 Placement Office in May or June.

Special Education Services and Supports in High School

When students transition to high school, the special education services, supports, and instructional strategies listed on their IEPs are provided in a variety of ways depending on their needs in each subject and/or functional area, and schools’ instructional approach and academic program. For more information, please see our Family Guide to Special Education.

Academic Planning and Post-Secondary Goals

Students and families are encouraged to think about post-secondary goals and engage with support staff at school to strategically plan for life after high school. Ideally, these discussions are held throughout middle school as students’ 8th grade IEPs must specify post-secondary goals. Students, families, and school staff should work together to consider which academic program, assessment (standard vs. alternate), and graduation pathway best supports the student toward achieving those goals. Students’ IEPs should reflect the specially designed instruction, supports, services, goals, and post-secondary objectives needed to meet specific graduation requirements.

Graduation Requirements

Students in New York City must complete a minimum of 44 credits of coursework in specific subject areas and pass New York State Regents exams to graduate from high school. Students with disabilities are encouraged to pursue the most rigorous diploma option appropriate, based on their interests and goals. Eligible students with disabilities may also earn a commencement credential in addition to a diploma or as a standalone credential. These credentials are not equivalent to a diploma, but provide students the opportunity to demonstrate their preparation for entry-level work. For additional information on graduation requirements, visit http://www.nyc.gov/schools/RulesPolicies/GraduationRequirements and talk to your child’s guidance counselor. The Graduation Requirements Cards on that website are a quick reference for families to understand all the requirements.

High School Admissions Tips

- TIP Use the High School Directory or NYC School Finder to create a broad list of choices based on your interests.
- TIP Make sure to submit a balanced application that includes your “reach,” “target,” and “likely-match” program choices.
- TIP When signing in at schools and fairs, write your name and contact information clearly.
- TIP Don’t treat Selection Criteria grades and test scores as cutoffs. If your academic record falls below the listed range, you can still apply but you should consider this a “reach” program on your application and limit the number of “reach” programs you include in your list of 12 ranked programs.
- TIP There are programs designed to serve students who are learning English. These programs admit students according to home language, years in this country, or English proficiency.
- TIP On each school page in the High School Directory, you can find each program’s Students with Disabilities (SWD) seat availability last year.
- TIP Read the Specialized High Schools Student Handbook to help prepare for the SHSAT and auditions. Register for auditions and the SHSAT by mid-October!
